

RESCUE SHIPS LA 130 FROM MIAMI'S CLASS BOTTOM BOAT

4 DOWN DEAD IN BLAST OF GASOLINE

Only One Body Missing of 135 Who Were Forced to Plunge into Sea

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 15 (AP)—Four persons lost their lives in the explosion and fire aboard the glass bottom excursion boat Eureka II yesterday, an unofficial check disclosed today.

One other person was unaccounted for and 120 of the 135 passengers had been brought safely to shore.

Three bodies were brought here and another was aboard a disabled fishing craft south of Miami Beach.

Those known to have lost their lives were:

GIMM, H. C. 63, McCook, Neb., a passenger.

VINE, Clarence, 30, Haverhill, Mass., a deck hand.

SAWYER, Mrs. Mammie, 45, Miami Beach.

The other 130 survivors of the excursion boat were brought here by the rescue craft, the Dorothea and the Nightingale.

The Eureka II, which was returning from an excursion to the Marine Gardens with a pleasure party, sank in more than twenty feet of water after the explosion and resulting fire had forced all to jump into the ocean.

Investigation of the tragedy probably would be started immediately.

While the checkup accounts for 129 survivors, there is uncertainty as to the exact number of persons aboard the boat.

With four known dead and one missing, the passenger list was incomplete.

Authorities thought it probable that Mrs. Mary Baker, of Milwaukee, Frank Reake, of Providence, R. I., and J. S. Haig, of Pomona, Cal., were aboard, but no report had been heard of them today.

Rescued, Missing in Boat Tragedy

Among the rescued passengers of the excursion boat Eureka were:

BUTLER, Mr. and Mrs. E. H., Danvers, Mass.

KENNEDY, E. J., Southbridge, Mass.

KEENE, Miss Lillian, Methuen, Mass., in Jackson Memorial hospital, recovering from exhaustion.

Southwick Lannery in Peabody Damaged by Fire

Four fire departments fought a blaze in the big leather factory of L. B. Southwick Co. of Peabody today that threatened the entire plant and two residential districts.

The fire started in a warehouse where 25,000 sheepskins were stored. When flames leaped across a small brook in the main factory and were aided by Danvers, Lynn and Salem.

John Kennedy, an employee, first saw the flames and a volunteer fire team followed soon after.

The cause could not be immediately determined. The fire was not extinguished until the arrival of Peabody Apparatus.

The damage is estimated at $250,000. One fireman James Gilman suffered from immersion after he had fallen into a vat of tanning fluid.

Many narrow escapes were recorded among the factory workers in their flight to save the main factory.

Most of the 20 employees returned to work in the undamaged part of the building.

Chapin to Be Buried With Wife He Killed

On Monday, N. Y., Dec. 15 (AP)—Charles E. Chapin will attain his last wish—to see to oblation by the wife he killed 12 years ago today, when he shot her dead in the New York Evening World editorial office.

Chapin, now time city editor of the New York Evening World, died last night in the St. John's hospital after having served 11 years of a 20-year sentence for the slaying of Mrs. Nellie Brown Chapin.

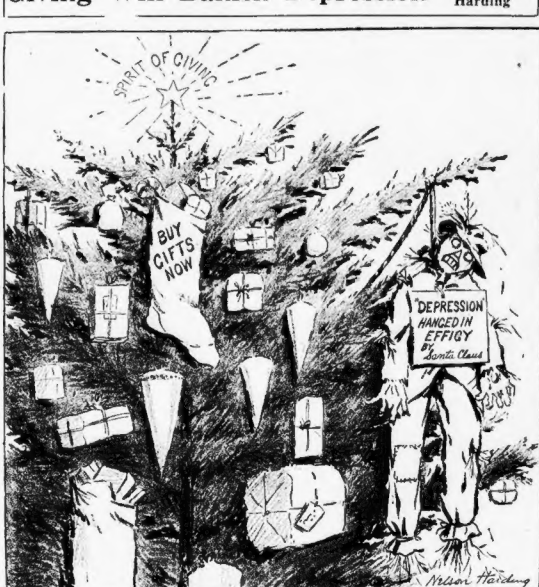

His wife was a grand niece of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller.

In his will Chapin expressed desire to be buried in the family plot in the Glenmont cemetery, Washington, D. C., in the least expensive casket obtainable.

He asked that no service be held.

Giving Will Banish Depression

By Nelson Harding

What better place is there to hang that grotesque effigy. The baggy called "Depression" than upon a Christmas tree?

Barney Barnes, chairman of the national business survey conference, singled out in a survey which he released the failure of general business expectations for quickened trade by the end of the year.

Many American industries, said Barnes, have adapted themselves to conditions, furnishing necessary production and consumption.

During this recession, "the aggregate volume of trade has manifestly been of large proportions and there are indications of individual industries successful beyond the average, either because of special conditions or because of maintaining mental qualities, courage, initiative and enterprise, which are typical of Americans."

The new report covered, for most lines, 11 months of the year. Retail trade was off 7 per cent, point receipts still below 1929.

Sign trade continued to decline, 31 per cent new capital was floated last year, stockholders credit continued abundant, but 2 per cent cheaper.

IRELAND HIT BY BIG DROP IN U. S. FUNDS

Dublin, Dec. 15 (AP)—The Irish peasants, particularly those living on the western and northwestern seaboard, are faced with a black winter and their plight is causing grave concern to President Cosgrave's government.

The wet summer has practically ruined their oat, wheat, hay and potato crops. On top of these troubles comes the disquieting rumor that "The American Relief Committee" has decided to withdraw from their son or daughter emigrants in the United States, who will not be as valuable as heretofore.

In a statement to the Daily Minister of Finance Byrne estimated that the "invisible income" to the Free State from emigrants abroad and tourist expenditures is in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 yearly. Of this amount, it is estimated, the annual remittances from America comprise $12,500,000. Last Christmas this amount showed a decline and it is feared this year the falling off will be more marked.

In an attempt to alleviate distress the government is setting aside $1,500,000 for relief. While it is felt that the amount allotted will only go a little way toward making up the dollar shortage, it will help to tide the people over a critical time.

And after that an avalanche of RKO attractions. The Six Little Boys, Audrey Maple, Burns and Allen, Hum and Strom, nationally shown radio entertainers, Tyler Mason, blackface comic, Don Huppert, "Whispering Serenade," MacLaren Sisters and others.

Just as though that weren't enough to crowd several hours of pleasure you will hear Arthur Brown of the Mayfair Club intersperse with songs and introductory remarks. Jimmy Gallagher, of "Toll Hacking" on fame, singing and acting as emcee at the musical; Ronald Grove hand with the Royal Sirens and Rose and Ray-Lite; Frank Machado, Ross Willams and his Royal Flash orchestra from the Hollywood Inn.

A FEW CHOICE SEATS LEFT

And at the close of the all-giving program Jacques Renard directing his talented band of musicians from the Mayfair Club. Jacques has prepared a special repertoire for the occasion as a climax to the splendid efforts which he and Arthur Brown have given to the Basket Fund.

Tickets for the midnight benefit show are on sale at the box office of both Keith theaters, and there are a few choice ones left. Telephone orders will be accepted until 9 p. m. tonight.

Magistrate's Home Bombed in Strike

Danville, Va., Dec. 15 (AP)—A terrific blast early today wrecked the front porch of the home of Magistrate R. S. Pitts, about two miles from Schoolfield. The magistrate, his wife and two small grandchildren, Philip and Patricia, were sleeping in the house. No one was injured.

Magistrate Pitts said he had been warned that he "had better have the militia guard his home" after he had reformulated the arming of troops in Schoolfield, where a terrible strike is in progress.

To Wed Son of Financier

my country all by myself. Please pass the biscuits. The house is a liar. He wasn't there at all."

With Thomas Paine we must agree that these be times that try men's souls.

But the heels are trying to snatch all the glory.

California radio fans have been annoyed by a bootlegger who runs an electric still.

His short-wave stages jam the air and give everybody jam looks and contraband stuff.

Result is that all musical programs are no good for entertainment or medicinal purposes.

So the towns authorities threaten to expose the bootlegger unless he confines his home work to fewer office hours.

They know his name. They know where he lives.

We hope they don't know his prices.

The program best night consisted exclusively of subjects endorsed by the municipal bootlegger.

Here's what they got from his electric still:

Oh in the Still Night, Coming Through the Rye, Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes. Ben Jonson.

Main Stem Song: Rudy Velez. Drink a Hiccup at Nightfall. University of Penn.

Victor Herbert's Abinothe Frasper.

And many others too expensive to mention.

Maybe it's the fault of the Eighteenth Amendment which boasted the padlock industry without harming any other.

The bootlegger can square matters by putting in a good orchestra.

And while the electric still is broadcasting, the engineer and his family can launch a program of old-fashioned love songs.

Bootleggers have annoyed the government for years. This is the first time it has been brought right home to us.

His eye and Scotch are not as bad. But the interference is terrible when he's making gin.

Looks like the National Radio Commission will have to slit him a wave length.

HEADS OF COLLEGES DEFEND GIRLS FROM ATHEISTIC CHARGES

LEADERS DENY COLLEGIATE TEACHING

Miss Florence Birmingham's Lecture Held "Sensational and Wholly Unfounded"

College girls, attacked as atheistic and radical by Mrs. Florence Birmingham, author and lecturer, were staunchly defended today by Miss Lane P. Franklin, head of girls at Boston University.

Miss Birmingham appears to be a sensationalist, who does not understand college girls or college life," said Mrs. Franklin. "College professors are not trying to teach religion but are trying to get the students to think for themselves."

NAYS SHE DOESN'T KNOW. Miss Birmingham's lecture to me about religious problems, and I know for a fact that serious-thinking students in the colleges consider religion a great deal. I know Mrs. Birmingham doesn't know that type of student.

"She was perhaps speaking only of that type which tries to be smart and cynical, but this is the degraded, the thousands of very serious students in colleges all over the country."

After a long time being collected of their feelings, the girls, who were being taught into the spirit of the most quick-witted in the world, said:

She flayed professors who are teaching communism with the poison of atheism under their tongues and blamed them for "an army of young people who perpetually think that life is empty and unsatisfying" for youthful students and "atheists, dragging themselves with pleasure."

DENIED BY PRESIDENTS. In regard to Mrs. Birmingham's charge of "a hiring hall" of girls, Miss Lane P. Franklin, president of Wellesley College, stated:

"All that I can say is that the speaker cannot refer to Wellesley College in that direction here, as far as I know."

When I found of the attack in college circles, Miss Lane P. Franklin, president of Wellesley College, stated:

"It sounds to me as if the speaker is making a sensational charge without knowing very much about women's colleges. If she attacks them in this way, she is questioning the college life from the inside."

JEWS TO MARK SETTLEMENT ANNIVERSARY

Nation, State and City Will Join in Tribute Wednesday Night to Pioneers

The 275th anniversary of the first official settlement of Jews in America will be commemorated with impressive exercises Wednesday night in Faneuil Hall.

Representative of the nation, state and city will pay tribute to the 275th anniversary of the first Jewish settlers in America, who, 275 years ago, laid the foundation of present Jewish communities of 1,000,000 people, scattered over 10,000 communities in the United States.

NOTABLES TO ATTEND. Addresses will be given by notable figures in public life. President Hoover has shown a deep interest in this historic anniversary and has sent a special message to Alexander H. Harkness, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements for the celebration.

That the 275th anniversary of the first Jewish settlement coincides with the 300th anniversary of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, adds greater significance to the occasion. It emphasizes the fact that the Jews are among the oldest elements of the population in our various states and have grown up together with the general community in the spirit of Americanism.

This custom of feasting on night before the birthday anniversary of the Christ child has been followed for centuries. Ferdinand Martinetti smiles at his sister, Josephine, as she works on a choice bit of that tasty fish meat. They live at 111 Prince st.

Spanish War Vets Called On to Act

Editor Boston American:

I have been reading the letters on the World War veterans in your column. I think it is very good that the Spanish War veterans woke up and demanded some action.

How many of the boys received two or three extra dollars from the government? How many of the boys that fought in the swamps of the Philippines received a bonus from the State of Massachusetts?

Did anybody ever hear of a Spanish War veteran receiving a $1000 insurance policy? A $2500 pension certificate? A $1000 allowance? Just a small pension 32 years after the war? I think the government is called on.
